Métamorphoses des fondements

Les articles rassemblés dans ce numéro mettent en évidence la mobilité et la dynamique des formes de légitimation des principes qui fondent savoirs ou compétences. Les théories de la démonstration de l'Antiquité tardive, la philosophie de la physique vers 1900, les débats sur la légitimité de la monarchie espagnole à la fin du XVIIe siècle, ou encore les différentes formes de religion consacrées à la vie civile sont autant de lieux où se dessine une métamorphose des fondements.

L'anthropologie des médecins (Moyen Âge–Époque moderne)

Jusqu'au XIXe siècle, les médecins se sont fait anthropologues, au sens où ils s'interrogeaient, par nécessité, sur la nature humaine. Les âges de la vie, l'influence de la géographie, des pratiques alimentaires et des mœurs, voire de la morale sont autant d'éléments que le médecin devait prendre en compte dans sa description de l'homme et de sa santé. La particularité de l'anthropologie des médecins tenait en effet avant tout à la reconnaissance d'une infinie variété au sein de l'humanité, variété à laquelle le médecin devait et savait seul s'adapter. De plus, l'extension très large de la notion de santé leur permettait de tenir un discours allant au-delà du simple bien-être du[...]

Contemporary Issues in Child Welfare Practice

Child welfare is the oldest specialization within social work practice and the only specialty area in which social work is the host profession. This edited volume provides a unique and comprehensive overview of practice issues relevant to contemporary child welfare professionals entering the field as well as those already working in direct service and management positions. This book's emphasis on systemic, integrated, and evidence-informed practices at the individual, family, and organizational level is in keeping with child welfare's core mission of child protection, family support, and permanency for youth. This volume also explores the challenges and opportunities present in a[...]

Exporting Culture

Which role for Europe in a Global World?

Is European culture visible enough in the globalized world? Why is culture from this continent often perceived as 'old-fashioned' or even worse as 'out-dated'? Is the export of national cultural products and services – in most European countries subsidized by the taxpayer – no longer relevant, or more relevant than ever before? Is it a huge waste of money, time, and effort or an attempt to create another form of globalization? Culture – in its broadest sense – is often viewed and accepted in ways that differ completely from those of other internationally traded goods. This might be one of the reasons why so many institutions, foundations and cooperations invest time, power, and money[...]

Nature Technology

Creating a Fresh Approach to Technology and Lifestyle

The Great East Japan Earthquake, which occurred on March 11, 2011, reminded us that we were just one species within the great cycle of life on earth, that we were allowed to survive only because of nature, and that the idea that we were somehow able to conquer nature was simply an illusion. Now more than ever it is time that we confront head-on the change from the "underground resources" type of civilization to one with a new way of life and technology that embraces a sense of nature. To do so, we must learn from nature, the only sustainable society on earth, and create technology that embraces such a view of nature. We call such technology, which cleverly revives nature's greatness,[...]

Transumanismo, il pensiero dopo l'uomo

Il transumanismo è un movimento filosofico e culturale internazionale che vuole che l'uomo prenda in mano la propria evoluzione biologica tramite l'uso della tecnologia. L'obiettivo finale è quello di raggiungere uno stadio evolutivo "post-umano", in cui noi stessi e i nostri discendenti possiamo godere di una vita lunghissima e di capacità fisiche e mentali superiori a quelle attuali. Un po' come il "Giano bifronte" della tradizione romana, il movimento transumanista ha due facce, in questo caso una rivolta al presente, ai progressi scientifici e tecnologici attualmente in corso, e l'altra che guarda al mondo che verrà. Il libro costituisce per il lettore un viaggio tra le[...]

Competencies in Sleep Medicine

An Assessment Guide

Competencies in Sleep Medicine provides the knowledge and curriculum needed for a Sleep Medicine Training Program. The approach is consistent with the goals of the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME), which asks programs to develop specific and targeted approaches to each program that covers the material presented in the Training Program.Authored by leaders in the field, each chapter focuses on an area of knowledge and skills in sleep medicine and offers appropriate examples of instruction and assessment. These principles and protocols for training can be used by a program to address weaknesses, assess trainees in a standardized fashion, and provide[...]
